SCHLEY MAY FIGHT A BATTLE IN DARKNESS.

Absolutely No Truth in Report of Spanish and French Warships Off Halifax--Cuban Army Estimated Nearly 25,000 Men--Opinion Spain Desires to Seek Honorable Peace.

SCHLEY STILL GUARDING THE ENTRANCE—CERVERA'S SITUATION.

Confidence Unshaken as to the Original Belief That Spanish Squadron is Bottled Up in That Place.

Washington, May 26. Secretary L. has received no other news today from any section of the country or from any scout. [illegible] Santiago harbor [illegible] Schley is lying outside [illegible] to prevent the [illegible] Spanish vessels, but [illegible] official confirmation [illegible] This is a little remarkable [illegible] fact that it is only a day's [illegible] Schley's swift torpedo [illegible] to a cable port in [illegible]

It is not to be doubted that, with the question still open, the beginning of the military operations is retarded; for as long as there is a possibility of the Spanish naval force being at large, there is an impossibility to start the troop transports for Cuba. Probably it was this uncertain state of affairs that induced the President to call a consultation at the White House today between Secretaries Alger and Long, Gen. Miles and some members of the naval board.

Admiral Sicard, Captain Crowninshield and Captain Mahan. As stated by one of the members of the conference, the purpose was to go over the whole system from the Philippines or Cuba and Porto Rico and decide just how far the plans already laid should be modified to meet existing conditions. This involved a discussion of such important points as the propriety of the immediate advance of the military forces upon Cuba, the practicability of the advices so far had touching the location of the Spanish squadron, the policy of expediting the Cuban expeditions or mechanizing them, and, finally, the extent of the military assistance to be sent to Admiral Dewey at Manila as already indicated. The proceedings were rather in the nature of a consultation than of a council of war, where a full decision is demanded at once, so that it was not probable that all of those important questions were disposed of at the council.

None of the members of the conference is authorized to tell what had taken place, but there are thought to be patent indications of a decision to embark military expeditions, whether for Cuba or Porto Rico can only be conjectured, in the course of the next few days.

MAY ESCAPE BY NIGHT.

Washington, May 26. Naval officers are giving their attention to inquiring if it is possible for Admiral Cervera to get out of Santiago harbor by night. It is held that this is not very likely, as it is contended that being the east the Spanish admiral is an unfamiliar one, and consequently same nice [illegible] ships. The British [illegible] Admiral Hornby in 1805 escaped his entire fleet from a harbor [illegible] conditions, and that Admiral Cervera should be able to make [illegible] if he gets ready to do so.

[illegible] view here is just the contrary, it is pointed out that Admiral [illegible] escaped from an open bay, while [illegible] must come through an [illegible] about 300 feet wide, on [illegible] American searchlights will [illegible] It is asserted that this [illegible] Spanish but the naval manoeuvres carried on at Key West [illegible] few months ago which [illegible] positive demonstration that [illegible] cannot make an exit without [illegible] discovered. The [illegible] fought the Revenge [illegible] the engagement continued for [illegible] in the darkness, during which [illegible] the fleet of the Constellation was [illegible] and the ship crippled was [illegible] believed that if Admiral Cervera [illegible] he will choose the [illegible] for this movement.

On the other hand, naval officials are discussing the means the American commanders may adopt to make it exit impossible, in the blockade. If Cervera's [illegible] barges full of stones were sunk at the channel entrance, either of express and egress. A few old hulks would serve the same purpose in this case. There is difficulty in getting such craft and the sinking of the derelicts in the proper place in the channel would be attended with great danger. It must be towed to position, subjecting those in charge to the danger of mines and torpedoes. There is also the guns from Morro castle to be guarded against. It is understood, however, that Morro castle has no searchlights, so that a night operation of this character could be executed without the Spaniards being made aware of it.

Taking everything into account, naval officers feel that Admiral Cervera committed a fatal blunder in being trapped at Santiago, and there is no fear the trap will prove inadequate to hold him.

IMPENDING REVOLUTION IN SPAIN.

London, May 26. There are renewed minister predictions of an impending revolution in Spain contained in a special despatch from Madrid today. Emperor Frances Joseph of Austria is said to have strongly advised the Queen Regent to prepare to fly and her mother-in-law in Madrid is reported to have given her the same advice. But it is added that Queen Regent is determined to remain.

Continuing the despatch says: "The current of the Spanish feeling would be the best informed people regard as only a question of a few days, is bound to precipitate an outbreak."

A BAD HUMOR.

Bangor, Me., May 10, 1898.—Miss Christina Tomp s, residing at 609 Main street, this city, has been the victim of a bad humor. She suffered also from weak stomach and gas, hardly able to get around. She began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and its wonderful powers published in permanent cure. She says she is now in good health and loves to tell of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

LITTLE PROGRESS WAS MADE.

Although Under Consideration for Three Hours the War Revenue Measure Delays.

Washington, May 26. No substantial progress was made by the Senate today towards the disposition of the war revenue measure, although it was under consideration for three hours. Speeches were delivered on the bill by Mr. White (Dem. Cal.) and Mr. Teller (Col.) The former opposed the issue of bonds and strongly advocated the coinage of the silver seigniorage, and the tax upon corporations. In his discussion of the last feature Mr. White took out the fact that an amendment was to be offered to the bill by Mr. German (Dem. Md.) placing a tax of one-half of one per cent. upon certain large corporations. Mr. Teller dwelt largely upon the proposition to levy an income tax. He had not concluded his argument when the bill was laid aside in order that eulogies might be pronounced upon the late Senator Walthall of Mississippi.

SENATE IN DETAIL.

In conclusion, Mr. White declared that it would be the duty of those who would not only offer up their lives in defense of the national honor, but who ought to pay the bills of the war, to share the consequences of the war. He appealed to senators to permit the bill to pass in such form as would distribute with a reasonable equity the burdens it imposed, and to levy taxation that would be fair to the American people and reflect honor on the Senate. Mr. Teller followed. He said he had no intention of discussing the bill from a partisan standpoint, considering the necessity for properly conducting the war more important than the securing of partisan advantage. He adverted to the interest felt by the people in the Cuban case, saying the struggling people could have been aided in the past without violating the neutrality laws.

WAR MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVOIDED.

He thought war might have been avoided, but how that war was to be waged to see it conducted by a united country. The administration bill had full and fair support by every party and there will be no holding back the sinews of war, all the men and all the money. Mr. Teller referred to the prepared condition of the country for war, and said this should not have been the case. He did not believe the war would be of long duration, and said no extraordinary preparation would be necessary in the conflict. He said there was not, under the circumstances, the usual justification for taxing future generations to pay for the war, as it was not, as the civil war, a war for self-preservation.

Mr. Teller asserted that the bond feature of the bill was in no wise organic to its revenue measure, and declared that it was merely arranged for the purpose of taking advantage of the war exigency to secure not only for a bond issue, said, the taxing power was given by congress and by the decision of the supreme court in the income case.

A MOST SERIOUS BLOW.

With the greatest respect for that body, he said, he maintained that the court's decision carried to its logical conclusion, meant simply that the rich could not be taxed. He believed that the decision was the most serious blow at the sovereignty of the people since the government was erected. Mr. Teller defended the policy of levying an income tax. He read extracts of speeches delivered more than 25 years ago in the House by Mr. Hale and others who are now members of the Senate. He mentioned among others Mr. Gallion (Rep. Ill.), "I am in favor of an income tax now," asserted Mr. Gallion.

"Well I'm glad to hear it" said Mr. Teller.

Before Mr. Teller concluded his speech the bill was laid aside that the Senate might take up the special order—eulogies upon the late Senator Edward C. Walthall, of Mississippi. While the special order was pending Mr. Sewall (N. J.) moved that the Senate concur in the House amendment to the Senate bill suspending certain provisions of law relating to longitudinal stewards. The amendment was that the increase of stewards should not exceed one hundred. Mr. Sewall's motion was agreed to. A bill was reported by Mr. Sewell providing for the employment of retired navy officers during the present war. It was passed.

Mr. Money (Miss.) presented the resolutions upon the death of Mr. Walthall. The eulogies were pronounced by Mr. Money (Miss.), Mr. Hawley (Conn.), Mr. Berry (Ark.), Mr. Proctor (Vt.), Mr. German (Md.), Mr. Cannon (Utah), Mr. Cockrell (Mo.), Mr. Hale (Penn.), Mr. Pasco (Fla.) and Mr. Pettus (Ala.). At the conclusion of the eulogies the Senate as a further mark of respect adjourned until tomorrow at 11 A. M.

IN THE HOUSE.

Washington, May 26. In a long session today the House passed few bills, but the business involves a wide range of subjects. After a brush over civil service, brought on by a paragraph in the deficiency pension bill, providing for some temporary clerks in the war department the House considered a bill to amend the internal revenue laws. Referring to a recent speech from Mr. Stanfield of Oregon, Mr. Grow of Pennsylvania upon the free coinage of silver and greenbacks as legal tender, respectively. Pending a yea and nay vote upon the internal revenue bill the House adjourned. The vote will be taken immediately after the House meets tomorrow.

Also a bill providing for the sale of unallotted lands of the Pottawatomie and Kickapoo Indians in Kansas and a bill amending the law providing the Hopes and places for holding terms of U. S. courts in Idaho and Wyoming.

Mr. Cannon (Ill.) called up the pension deficiency bill, as amended and passed by the Senate yesterday. The bill carries a paragraph inserted by the Senate providing that temporary appointments of clerks may be made without civil service examination.

Mr. Underwood moved to non-concur in the provision.

Mr. Hepburn (Rep. Ia.) proposed an amendment, declaring "specifically that none of the clerks herein provided for shall be placed in the classified service."

Mr. Moody (Rep., Mass.) made a point of order against the amendment. The Speaker sustained the point, but meantime Mr. Cannon gave assurance to call attention to the nature of the pending measure and not appropriation bill, and that he did not propose to open a debate upon the civil service or any other hobby. If you interpret the question of civil service into the bill and let it go to debate in the House and Senate, regulations and the war can both go to the devil so far as some men are concerned if they have opportunity to talk upon their hobby.

The previous question was taken and carried.

The House then concurred in the Senate amendments to the bill.

TO AMEND INTERNAL REVENUE LAW.

The House then went into committee of the whole to consider the bill to amend the internal revenue laws, relating to distilled spirits. Mr. Dingley and Mr. Bromwell (Rep., O.) explained the measure. Its chief provisions reduce the bonded warehouse period from eight years, as fixed by the law of 1894, to seven years, and increase the storage rates from four to seven years, making these periods of equal length. Other provisions of the measure are intended to reduce frauds, which are now committed in connection with the stamp feature of the present law.

Mr. McRae (Dem., Ark.) attacked the bill vigorously as framed to give the distillers an improper concession. Mr. Swanson (Dem., Va.) explained the difference between the existing law and the proposed law. Mr. Berry (Dem., Ky.) elaborated a statement made by Mr. Bromwell that distillers under existing law were exporting their product and storing it abroad, waiting for better conditions in this country. It was possible, he said, to bring it back, pay the tax upon the actual amount and thereby escape taxation upon any amount. It might have evaporated. It was cheaper to pursue this course than to delay it in bond, or to deal in government warehouse receipts. He calculated that the American distiller upon an equal footing with foreigners and also the manufacturer of whiskey would be able to compete with the foreigner in the home market, but he contended that the whiskey to sale and consumption before properly matured and candidly "American citizens to drink to the risk of their systems and the destruction of their stomachs.

In course of the discussion Mr. Shattuck (Col.) and Mr. Grow (Rep., Pa.) made speeches upon silver coinage and kindred under currency.

An amendment offered by Mr. Dingley was adopted declaring that any spirits exported and subsequently imported should pay the same internal tax that it would have been required to pay at the time of importation had it not been exported. It was intended by Mr. Dingley explained, to prevent the export of spirits for blending purposes, to which reference had been made in the day.

Upon the bill as amended the yeas and nays were demanded, but pending the roll call the House adjourned at 5.10 o'clock.

CHASED BY SPANIARDS.

Europa Had Exciting Trip With Cargo of Sulphur.

Portland, Me., May 26. The British steamer Europa, Capt. Martin, arrived here today from Licata, Sicily, with 2,500 tons of sulphur. The captain reports that as he was leaving the Mediterranean he was chased by a Spanish torpedo boat, lying there in wait for American vessels. As the steamer's cargo was contraband she would have been detained if caught. The Spanish boat, however, was smaller than the chase, and the Europa soon left it behind. But a third larger boat, and she was unable to catch the Europa, which was put under a full head of steam. The Spanish gave it up and went back. The next day the Europa was chased again by another Spanish torpedo boat, with the same result. No shots were fired. The Europa reached here by the steamer in for Maine ports.

ALLEGED ACTION OF OUR WARSHIPS DENOUNCED.

Madrid, May 23—3 P. M. In the chamber of deputies, Senor Canset, director of the Imparcial, denounced the alleged acts of some of the American warships as being contrary to international law. He also moved that a pension be granted to the family of the captain of the Reina Maria Christina, who perished at Cavite.

The minister of marine, Auson, accepted the proposition.

In the Senate Count Almenas introduced the question of privateering, urging the government to adopt privateering "in view of the American proceedings." The minister of foreign affairs, Duke Almodovar de Rio, declared the matter was inopportune and could not be debated.

Count Almenas, however, insisted but president the president of the Senate refuse to allow the discussion to continue.

Did how I admire the new Spring hat
That Dorothy shows to me!
I don't know whether it's round or flat,
Or if in shape it ought to be;
And I cannot tell if it's a lie made,
The dainty chic wearer of it,
But my heartfelt praises have been bestowed
On Dorothy's new Spring hat.

I only know that the ribbons and lace
And flowers that nod and bend—
Make a pretty frame for a pretty face,
And there my opinions end.
And welcome, thrice welcome, the blossoms that blow
On Dorothy's new Spring hat!

Such is Supposed Fate of Watchman—Hamilton Burned This Morning.

(Special dispatch to Whig and Courier.)

Houlton, Me., May 27. Fire at 12 to-night destroyed Hamilton's mill, dry house and F. W. Tetrault's lumber stable and large stock. The boarding house was saved with great difficulty but was damaged.

The loss is $30,000. There is no insurance.

The flames spread in an incredibly short time.

Watchman J. Driscoll is thought to have been lost in the flames.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR'S BATTERY ACCEPTED.

New York, May 26. The battery offered to the United States government by John Jacob Astor, what possibilities first broke out was accepted today.

Lieut. March, of the 3d United States artillery, telegraphed today to Mr. Astor's representative here as follows:

"Organization been allowed for 102 men."

Lieut. March has been detailed to command the battery and he will come here from Washington to superintend the enlistment of recruits. The new battery will be on the order of what is called a mountain battery. It can be used in mountainous regions where guns mounted on field carriages would be of little use. The gun carriages and guns are detachable and can be packed on the backs of mules for the transportation. The battery will be made up of 6 12-pound Hotchkiss rapid fire guns. A recruiting station will be opened here tomorrow. Applications have already been received from Columbia and Harvard men and also from a number of 7th regiment men.

THE STOCK MARKET.

New York, May 26. The movement of prices worthy of particular note in the stock market today was confined to a few special stocks as was also a large part of the activity in the trading. The majority of the list was somewhat dull and neglected. The industry of the market was Rock Island which rose at one time 2½ points.

The local traction stocks enjoyed their share of strength as well. Northern Pacific rose an additional four points to 17½, a new high level. The reactionary tendency centered in Manhattan which was active and favorite all day and fell an extreme 2½ points with a net loss of nearly a point.

Metropolitan street railway sympathized in this movement, declining 3 points from the top on 146 net. This weakness combined with the profit taking in Rock Island unsettled the market and almost wiped out the earlier gains in the general list. Net changes are in consequence small. There is a doubtful feeling, partly due to the approaching end of the month and during the lecture Miss M. C. Merrill and Miss Anne Lord pointed out the scenes referred to in the lecture.

Miss Hamilton Hamlin presided and presented Miss Butler who read the lecture very distinctly and pleasingly. The lecture began with a reference to the location of the Congressional Library high above the city of Washington, to the east of the Capitol, where it stands in dignity with a dome which has no peer. Its personality, which grows by one, the majesty of the approach, the three sculptured women representing Literature, Art and Science, and higher up the seven Hatfield faces, were mentioned in detail.

Miss Bouteille then gave some facts about the building of the Library and its purpose, which originally was for the use of the Senate, House of Representatives and Government officials, but which has developed into that of a national library. It was completed in 1897. The artists who so superbly decorated this magnificent literary monument were named and the library was stated as being the largest, costliest and safest in the world.

The mural and sculpture decorations have principally contributed to give the library its position among the libraries of the world. The library is 470 feet long, 340 feet deep, 3 stories high, or 64 feet at the lowest point and 72 at the highest, and occupies 3¾ acres of land. The three bronze doors, the great bronze fountain at the approach, the commemorative arch, the reading room and rotunda, the basement, corridors and library for the blind, the stained glass windows, diminishing the light only one-eighth and adding greatly to the artistic effect, the room of Librarian John Russell Young, the Charles Sprague, Pierce, Simmons and Walker corridors, the last being termed an enchanted place, the Senate and Congressional reading and writing rooms, and the gallery, were described in glowing terms of admiration for their beauty and grandeur. Reference was made to the Longfellow Memorial association and the hope was expressed that ere long a statue of the great poet might stand at the approach.

The close of the lecture was followed by applause. At its close, and at the suggestion of Mrs. L. L. Paine a vote of thanks was passed to Miss Bouteille for the excellent lecture. Upon the motion of Mrs. T. G. Stickney and Mrs. F. B. Dedo, votes of thanks were passed to Miss Merrill for the Copley prints and their arrangement which was very tasteful, and to Miss Butler for reading the lecture so well.

The meeting was in charge of the art committee and was very successful.

The pictures will remain through today and Saturday and all who possibly desired to improve the opportunity today to see them. Hand books giving full descriptions of the pictures are for sale at 25 cents. The pictures in various sizes may be purchased, or duplicates ordered by application to Miss Merrill. The hours today are from 10 to 6.

The fine Copley prints are from Curtis & Cameron, of Boston, the only house who have reproduced the beauties of the Congressional Library and they should include representations of the great decorations of the Boston Public Library. They are very choice and strong appeal to the artistic sense.

[illegible] A SECOND EXPEDITION.

Washington, May 26. Little progress is made by the war department officials today in securing transports for the Philippine expedition, the only addition obtained being the Ohio, a good sized vessel. Negotiations with the Northern Pacific S. S. Co. for chartering their six vessels prove tedious.

There are now three vessels on the Pacific coast chartered available for the second expedition to the Philippines. It is hoped that by next week another detachment of 2500 men may be sent to reinforce Dewey.

The department has declined the offer made by Hon. Arthur Sewall, of Maine, to charter the ship Roanoke, as she is a sailing vessel.

SPAIN DESIRES TO SEEK HONORABLE PEACE.

London, May 27. The Madrid correspondent of the Times says:

"The prominent note of public opinion here is a desire to find some way to honorable peace. As Spain has nothing to gain by an indefinite prolongation of hostilities.

"An idea that France will intervene, however, is now abandoned, and hopes are fixed upon the possibility that Duke Almodovar de Rio, the new minister of foreign affairs, will find some favorable occasion on which to take the initiative."

CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

Very Interesting Lecture by Miss Grace H. Bouteille Read by Miss Ellen Hamlin Butler.

At the meeting of the Athene Club on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, when members of seven women's clubs, including those of Orono, were present, the occasion was made interesting by the charming lecture on the Congressional Library by Miss Grace H. Bouteille, which was read by Miss Ellen Hamlin Butler owing to Miss Bouteille's absence in Washington. The Copley prints, illustrating many points of the lecture added to the realistic and poetic quality of the description.

The Y. M. C. A. lecture room was completely filled with the ladies of the different clubs and patriotic favor was given to the occasion by the large Stars and Stripes which hung upon one of the walls. Beautiful flowers were also effectively used in the decorations. The many Copley prints were suspended from the walls and during the lecture Miss M. C. Merrill and Miss Anne Lord pointed out the scenes referred to in the lecture.

Miss Hamilton Hamlin presided and presented Miss Butler who read the lecture very distinctly and pleasingly. The lecture began with a reference to the location of the Congressional Library high above the city of Washington, to the east of the Capitol, where it stands in dignity with a dome which has no peer. Its personality, which grows by one, the majesty of the approach, the three sculptured women representing Literature, Art and Science, and higher up the seven Hatfield faces, were mentioned in detail.

Miss Bouteille then gave some facts about the building of the Library and its purpose, which originally was for the use of the Senate, House of Representatives and Government officials, but which has developed into that of a national library. It was completed in 1897. The artists who so superbly decorated this magnificent literary monument were named and the library was stated as being the largest, costliest and safest in the world.

The mural and sculpture decorations have principally contributed to give the library its position among the libraries of the world. The library is 470 feet long, 340 feet deep, 3 stories high, or 64 feet at the lowest point and 72 at the highest, and occupies 3¾ acres of land. The three bronze doors, the great bronze fountain at the approach, the commemorative arch, the reading room and rotunda, the basement, corridors and library for the blind, the stained glass windows, diminishing the light only one-eighth and adding greatly to the artistic effect, the room of Librarian John Russell Young, the Charles Sprague, Pierce, Simmons and Walker corridors, the last being termed an enchanted place, the Senate and Congressional reading and writing rooms, and the gallery, were described in glowing terms of admiration for their beauty and grandeur. Reference was made to the Longfellow Memorial association and the hope was expressed that ere long a statue of the great poet might stand at the approach.

The close of the lecture was followed by applause. At its close, and at the suggestion of Mrs. L. L. Paine a vote of thanks was passed to Miss Bouteille for the excellent lecture. [illegible] MEN THE [illegible]

August, Me., May 26. The order for the First Maine volunteers to proceed at once to Chickamauga was received by Col. Heald Thursday afternoon and the regiment went wild with joy.

They will depart Friday afternoon at about 2 o'clock in a special train of three sections, each containing 13 cars.

The entire trip will be made by rail and will occupy about 60 hours. Previous to the departure four days' rations will be issued to the men, together with 20 rounds of ammunition.

It is stated that the Second regiment will furnish Maine's quota on the second call for volunteers.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER.

London, May 27. The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"The political outlook is brighter, and the ministerialists believe that a cabinet crisis can be averted.

"Admiral Bermejo, minister of marine, declared in the cortes today, Thursday, that when an opportunity presented itself the cabinet would not fail to do its best to bring about an honorable peace."

SPAIN BUYS A SHIP.

London, May 27. A despatch from Hamburg says the North German Lloyds steamer Havel has been sold to the Spanish Company, Trans-Atlantic and has gone to Barcelona.

WAR WILL BE OVER SOONER THAN IS EXPECTED.

London, May 26. The Paris correspondent of the Telegraph reports an interview he had with Dr. Betancourt, representative of the Cuban republican government at Paris.

Dr. Betancourt expresses the conviction that the war will be over sooner than is thought in Europe.

"The Americans," he says, "will experience no difficulty in handling troops who will at once be joined by the insurgents who are much stronger than it generally supposed. Nor is there any doubt that Rear Admiral Sampson will strike a heavy blow shortly. The insurgents would rather accept annexation to the United States than the autonomy which Spain would grant. Before another week is Americans will be masters of Havana and firmly established in Cuba."

MUSTERING VOLUNTEERS.

Washington, May 26. The work of mustering the volunteers under the President's last call is practically completed.

The number so far mustered is 118,000.

GREAT MUSICAL EVENTS.

The Concerts by Maine Symphony Orchestra and Soloists June 10th—First Rehearsals of Choruses.

Director Chapman had a large chorus to conduct at the rehearsal last evening at the Music Hall. The Parlors, the Orono, Old Town and Ellsworth choruses uniting with the Bangor singers. It was a grand rehearsal. Mr. Chapman said Excellent progress is being made everywhere he says. Great enthusiasm was shown last evening.

Mr. Chapman reports a great interest everywhere in the coming tour of the Maine Symphony orchestra, which will play in Bangor June 20, afternoon and evening. In Ellsworth 200 tickets have already been engaged and in other places there is much interest. There will be excursions to Bangor from Waterville, Newport, Pittsfield and other places and the prospects are for an enormous attendance.

The "sun" which appears today gives interesting information regarding the great concerts here. Mr. Chapman says the orchestra will be a great improvement over previous efforts.

Dr. Oscar E. Wasgatt of this city will again be concert master, and Mr. H. M. Pulley and Mr. R. J. Sawyer will be among the fine players in the string section. Mr. S. H. Boardman of Providence, formerly of this city, will come down for the tour and add his tuneful flute to the wind section. The festival chorus will be 300 voices strong.

Gwilym Miles, the phenomenal bass-bass, will sing, and Miss Harriet Shaw, the noted harpist, will perform.

The Bangor ladies who have added the chorus to this city have worked hard and well for the cause and Mr. Chapman is very grateful for their efforts.

WINTERPORT.

Our correspondent writes: Levi Hackett is occupying his new buildings.

Edwin Clement is building a new stable.

Joseph Dorr is to build an addition to remove his old stable.

Mr. Markham Moody has much improved the Robinson place.

Miss Mary Hubbard arrived here on Tuesday.

Charles McKennay is building an addition to his storehouse.

A flag has been ordered for the school house at the upper village to replace the old one. It has been purchased by the scholars.

Much farming is being done here now.

Many friends in Hampden and elsewhere will regret to learn of the death of Joseph C. Garland, formerly of Hampden, Me., May 16th, at Beverly, Mass., at the age of 77 years and 2 months.

The first Maine Volunteers will be known officially as the 74th U. S. Infantry.

Two Bath, Me., brothers had not spoken for years. Their house caught fire recently and one awoke the other who was sleeping in the exposed portion of the house. The thought of danger melted the ice and the broke the silence in which he wrapped his brother and informed him that the house was on fire.

[illegible] CRUISE OF THE OREGON.

Key West, Fla., May 20. On leaving the Barbadoes the Oregon sailed almost directly north going to the north of Porto Rico about 150 miles. The northerly course was continued until the Bermudas were sighted, when she sailed for the east coast of Florida.

Capt. Clark explains that the reason for going to Jupiter Inlet instead of putting in at Key West was to enable the Oregon's men-of-war to go after to Key West or Hampton Roads after coaling, shell a fortification near Washington.

Capt. Clark had no official knowledge of the situation after leaving Rio Janeiro on April 9th. During the entire trip the crew expected momentarily to meet the Spanish. Only once, however, was there a call to arms. This was shortly after midnight on leaving Rio Janeiro. The vessel proved to be a harmless bark.

MAINE NEWS NOTES.

Life in Bar Harbor these nights must be exciting, as the Record says: Should one be suddenly brought to a standstill in the street on any of those dark nights by a stentorian voice shouting "Halt! don't be alarmed. It will prove to be merely a torpedo run a Spanish packet, but simply the drill master of the home guards put up the awkward squad through its paces.

The yachtsmen who make Bar Harbor a calling port during their summer cruises will be pleased to learn that Mr. S. E. Read has been retained by the town as harbormaster. Mr. Read has held the office for a number of years being which he has always efficiently performed his duties.

A woman whose farm is adjoining the Mt. Apollo slope in Auburn says that Mr. Tilloney although visited the place of one night and was much pleased with the product. Mr. Tilloney returns home he ordered some of the quinnipeant to the New York restaurant. The manager of the mine is expecting another visit from Mr. Tilloney within a few days.

A Lewiston man was recently had a couple of the smoky quartz from the Mt. Apollo place put into a ring and several times he has refused offers of them.

"A crowd of people into our train on the way to Seattle," writes Mrs. John C. Ricker to her friends at Lewiston, "and we played and prayed for our temporal and spiritual salvation. For lunch we served him a ham sandwich and cup of coffee, a meal which seems more grateful indeed, he seemed to relish so much that he came once for more and would have preached again for another sandwich. Lawyer preferred to give him the same which without a second sermon." Mrs. Billington and Miss Alfred Allen, who have left the colonies, still full of courage and hope and ready to brave all the terrors of Klondike for the sake of the gold. Her father, Mr. James Allen of Lewiston, looks much encouraged by his daughter's happiness.

A subscription paper was started Tuesday morning for stocking Lake Auburn with white perch. It is an open secret that many of the Lewiston fishermen are dissatisfied with the results in stocking the lake with trout and salmon. They think that with all that has been done at the lake in the interests of good fishing that something ought to be found. President Hanscom of the Lake Auburn Protective Association indorses the movement for putting a thousand white perch into the lake and says the State will give as much toward it as can be raised by private contributions. The contingent at the lake are taking a lively interest in the white perch boom.

The State assessors will be in session Thursday, June 2.

Ralph L. Hodge, of Bates College, will deliver the Memorial address at Liberty.

Dr. R. H. Marsh of Guilford, will deliver the Memorial Day oration at Abbot, Lower Village.

A forest fire was started on Strawberry hill, Monday, by someone burning up a pile of brush. Mr. J. E. Bunker, Jr., Bar Harbor's fire selectman, had a crew to work at once fighting the fire and prevented it from doing much damage.

When all hands were ordered on board on the Montauk, the other day, one of the sailors failed to report in his appearance. It seems he was just half through a shave when the order came and it wasn't so surprising that he had to be reminded that the other half of the shave could wait.

A West Bath lady says: "Since the war began we have been flooded with letters asking for rooms for the summer. It is twelve miles down to the coast, though the salt water comes up to our front yard, and people who have generally gone to Harpswell and Orr's Island are afraid of Spanish shells and are asking for chances to spend vacation with us."

One day last week two of the keepers of our local aquarium received a hint from a friend that a number of land-locked salmon had escaped from Lake Auburn and were sulking at the bottom of a deep pool in Duck brook, near the Bar Harbor Record. With all haste and secrecy the aquarium fixed up their gear and made an early start for the brook, fully intending to capture all the fish before the general public and rival sportsmen got earlier could get wind of the bonanza. Arriving at the pool, they found the fish just as stated, but, as even the most tempting morsels of bait could not induce the big fellows from the cool depths, they decided to fish this way, and, the aquarists pulled up their long rubber boots, waded into the stream, and scooped up with their landing nets a full dozen of large, handsome—skewivers! As you value your life, don't venture to ask Messrs. Rocick, Lawrence and Graham anything about the salmon fishing.

The income of the emperor of Russia for one day is $25,000, that of the sultan of Turkey $18,000, emperor of Austria $8,000, German emperor $5000, king of Italy $6,000, Queen Victoria $6,000, king of Belgium $6,000, president of France $600, president of the United States $33.

The streets of Manila are so uncleanly as to be quite out of keeping with the general appearance of the town. They are perfectly straight, macadamized and provided with ample granite walks. Of these the Escolta and the Rosario are the best. In both there are excellent shops, kept principally by Chinese merchants, most of whom come from America. The roofed houses line each side of both thoroughfares.

The yearly profit of the Suez Canal is $2,750,000.

John Mattey, an ironworker, who lost his eyesight by an explosion in his works at Steelton, Md., in 1897, has recovered $16,000 for damages in a suit against the Maryland Steel Company. Mattey risked his life in an effort to prevent almost certain death to his companions. He used a stick to stop a leak where molten metal was running out. The stick was wet, causing the splash on that destroyed his eyesight.

Peter Nay of Brandon, Vt., plowed up a cutlass in his garden last year which from the appearance of having been in the ground many years. It is a blade about 18 inches in length, but has heavy iron guards, and is marked with a spread eagle like the traditional bowie knife. The handle, which was once evidently of wood, has an iron guard to protect the hand, much like the modern cavalry swords. Some are of the opinion that this is a revolutionary relic, while others believe that one of the Spanish crew who used to rover the Burchill silver mine was the possessor of the pirate's sword.

[illegible] CONDITION OF [illegible] CUBAN ARMY.

Estimated That There Are Between 20,000 and 25,000 Troops Actually In Field.

Washington, May 26. Secretary Alger and Gen. Miles conferred today with two officers from the staff of Gen. Garcia, Gen. Collazo and Lieut. Col. Hernandez. Garcia has his headquarters at Bayamo, which was surrendered by the Spanish a few weeks ago.

The Cuban officers say the arrival of Lieut. Rowan caused the greatest enthusiasm throughout the Cuban camp.

Col. Hernandez says communication is established with Gen. Gomez and with points along the coast. From these he forms a general idea of the Cuban forces outside of those with Garcia and Pinar del Rio. He estimates that there are 12,000 men well armed and well fitted as well constituting the forces in the eastern department of the island under Garcia. In all, there are, according to the estimate, about 20,000 to 25,000 troops actually in the field.

It is understood that the purpose of the present visit of the officers is to give Garcia assurance of this support in every way by cooperation on the American movements. Similar assurances came from Gomez.

QUAINT CURACAO.

For 150 Years an Asylum for Political Fugitives and Home of South American Exiles.

Curacao is a Dutch colony and is the smallest of the islands in the world. It is not larger than the District of Columbia, but is about twice as populous as the latter. It played a large part in the early history of America. Its harbor is filled when it comes to Dutch and Spanish and Holland. Half the corsairs that harried the seas of many a school boy's dream in the Old World found well-protected harbors in the Curacao. For more than two centuries it has been for 100 years and still is an asylum for political refugees and many of the descendants that race still bear the rich olive of the Spanish blood. The high and mighty Bolivar, Santa Anna, and many other South American Spanish-American heroes, have lived there in exile and in an recently there was an old gray cloth upon one of the hills called Bolivar's tower. There the president of Venezuela lived in banishment for several years. Holland is fond of her possessions. The Dutch are extremely like those in Holland. The children are narrow, fat, the people in the shade lands through their windows, the neighbors across the way, peering wells a pipe, chick [illegible] for a fairer [illegible]. Curacao gives its name to a celebrated liquor that was formerly made of dried peel of a peculiar species of orange growing there. But most of the fruit trees have been destroyed by the drought, and the happy ones come from other of the West Indian islands. The inhabitants are merry souls. A few rich merchants, representing all nations, are sedate, but others, under their money by smuggling. It is a free port. No duties of any sort are charged, and as the amount of merchandise imported amounts to about twenty-five times as much as the inhabitants can consume and the labor is constantly lured with little schooners that seem to be always loading and unloading, there is good reason for the belief that the contraband trade with the mainland is still going on. Each steamer leaves enough goods upon the docks at Curacao to last the people for an entire year. What becomes of it is a question for the customs officers of Venezuela and Colombia to answer.

Roman law holds a man to his bargain when the lass agreed to marry him against his will. A young count, Pinck, has Miss Black's consent, in order to marry a girl, an action his family disapproved, consented to change his name and petitioned the emperor to be allowed to call himself Stein instead. After obtaining permission, however, he kept on Stein his former name, and has just been fined "for flagrant use of a title of nobility."

FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETS.

Increased Appropriations Are Requested by About All the Departments.

The finance committee of the City Government met on Thursday to arrange for the appropriations for the coming year. About all of the departments reported that more money was needed for their work owing to the growth of the city, and it is the sentiment of the committee that an increased appropriation will be recommended for most, if not all, of them. The particulars upon this were not decided upon at yesterday's meeting. The committee will make its report at the regular June session of the City Council.

A HOT "GO."

A Ball Game at Maplewood Park Develops Into a Prize Fight.

There was a game of base ball between two local scrub nines yesterday afternoon which was suddenly adjourned in the sixth inning in order to pull off a little fight with bare knuckles. In the excitement incident to the national game the center fielder, a long, lithe youth of 18 and the short stop, a small, stocky youth of the same age, name which is not found in dictionaries and in order to settle the affair, intimed honor both nines formed a ring, selected a colored youth, who is sojourning in Bangor from Boston, as referee and the two stripped for action. The short stop was too short to reach the center fielder's optics and contented himself with quick, low delves at the latter's solar plexus, while the right and left wings of the tall center fielder exploded in the air above the short stop's head.

When the fight became too entangled the dusky referee separated the fighters in true ring style, and to their efforts to silence the others' batteries the thirty odd spectators added encouraging cheers. They fought for twenty minutes. No blood was shed but there was a puff as large as an egg under the center fielder's left optic, while the short stop escaped with a few scratches.

At dawn battle was the referee's decision and the ball game was then resumed.

WELL DESERVED APPOINTMENT.

The announcement was made on Thursday that Mr. F. E. Rogers had resigned as assistant superintendent of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad. His resignation will go into effect May 31, on which date that office will be abolished. Beginning on that day, Mr. W. S. Brown will be superintendent for the entire line and will have full control of all train movements and station service. The appointment of Mr. Brown to this responsible position is a very fitting one, both from ability and experience. Mr. Brown is a graduate of Bowdoin College, class of '81, and after graduation was charged a civil engineering for several years. He then became connected with the Bangor & Piscataquis railroad, of which his father, Mr. Arthur Brown, was superintendent, and efficiently filled positions which had to do with the management of the road. When the B. & A. road took the B. & P. Ed became assistant superintendent for the B. & A. section. His promotion to the position of superintendent shows the recognition which the company places upon his services and his many friends will extend congratulations.

MINING THE RIVER.

Mayor Beal has received the following letter from Congressman Boutelle:

Washington, D. C., May 23, 1898.

Hon. W. O. Beal, Mayor, Bangor.

My Dear Sir—Your several telegrams received, with numerous other protests against the obstruction to traffic on the river by reason of placing of defensive mines in Bucksport narrows, and I am soon sought the chief of engineers to obtain a remedy.

The conflicting statements sent by our Bangor people and by the United States engineer officer rendered difficult to reach a satisfactory understanding. As Major Hodges stated that there was no substantial interference with commerce on the river, I decided to wait the receipt of your telegrams and other similar reports this morning. I received Senator Hale to go with me to the department, and after going over all the papers we signed a written request that one of the rows of mines be removed and leave unobstructed a channel 200 feet wide for vessels. The fences for dangerous beings now 400 of Bangor.

We felt that the blockade of streams must be removed at once, and that the people of Bangor would approve such a step. Hence we telegraphed orders to Major Hodges to that effect, and I trust you will every morning have unimpeded navigation.

Very truly yours,
C. A. BOUTELLE.

Mr. Folsom—Sir, I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to you for your Dobbs Ointment. It cures quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50 cents.

LEAVES TO-DAY.

First Maine Starts for Chickamauga This Afternoon.

Lewiston, Me., May 26. A special to the Journal from Augusta says:

Col. Lucius H. Kendall, of the First Maine U. S. volunteers, received word this afternoon from the secretary of war to proceed with his regiment to Chickamauga, Georgia, and report to the commanding general of the army, George H. Thomas, for duty.

The regiment will leave Augusta Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Keep them out—all those germs, the seeds of disease, that are trying day and night to get a foothold in your system. You can do it unless your liver is active. The very best medicine for the liver and to clear blood is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Take it when you're getting thin, or have a pimple or eruption; when you have no appetite and feel run-down; when the head aches, mind—and you'll save yourself from serious illness.

DEXTER NEWS.

Continuation of the W. C. T. U. Convention Exercises.

Penobscot County Convention Successful—Pleasing Events—General News Notes.

(Special to Whig and Courier.)

Dexter, May 26. At the Wednesday evening session of the W. C. T. U. convention the church was well filled. Unfortunately, a disappointment was in store for the people owing to the illness of Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, of Washington, D. C., who was unable to be present and address the convention, as was expected. The session was opened with music by Misses Crosby, Spearwall, Gould and Hale and Mesdames Carr, Hamilton, Abbott and Smith. Mrs. Surbeck read the crusade Psalm, after which Mrs. G. V. Smith offered prayer. The ladies' quartette of Dexter then rendered a beautiful selection. Rev. Dr. Ferris of the Methodist church who introduced and spoke of the difference in the use of liquor now and in fifty years ago, and the belief that prohibition does prevail to a large extent. He also made a glowing tribute to Miss Willard and referred to the kindness of heart and the helpfulness of John B. Gough. The speaker then congratulated the women of the county upon the work which they are accomplishing. Rev. E. A. Marsh of the Dexter Baptist church was introduced to the convention and gave a spirited address during which he became extremely fervent in address by the Lord. Dr. A. J. Gordon showing the responsibility growing out of one's good, and opportunity. Mrs. S. L. Small then favored the audience with a pleasing solo.

Rev. W. H. Long, of Portland, was then introduced and gave a stirring address in which he called attention to the fact that truth cannot be forced into the heart but must proceed out of it. He next spoke regarding the dead drunkard and of her duty of reaching the fallen, the downhearted and outcast.

Rev. W. H. Gould, of the Dexter Universalist church, was introduced in view of the interest of the hour his remarks were brief.

Mrs. Wheeden, of the Bangor Crusade, spoke of Mrs. Blake, an honorary member, and Mrs. Crossman, who was the organizer of the union and its president for many years. Mrs. Crosby, of Bangor, paid tribute to the memory of the dead members of the Bangor Union, Mrs. Bikker and Mrs. Lothrop.

Mrs. Cowan, of Orono, spoke regarding the qualities and helpfulness of Mrs. Mansfield and Mrs. Lovejoy. Mrs. Curtis urged the necessity of even more and better work for the coming year. Music was furnished by Mrs. W. H. Carr, Mrs. George Hamilton, Mrs. S. L. Small and Mrs. G. W. Abbott.

The minutes recently were read by the department superintendents for 1897-8 showing that good work is being done in the various departments. The press report was given by Mrs. White.

The noontide hour of prayer was observed and voiced by Mrs. M. H. Wyman, of the Dexter Union. The unfinished business was taken up and the report of the resolution committee was presented. The resolutions were adopted.

Mrs. Vining, of St. Albans, made a few remarks. An invitation was extended to the convention to meet at Brownville next year and it was accepted. The meeting was adjourned.

After an excellent dinner served in the vestry the visiting ladies were given an opportunity to drive about the beautiful town of Dexter and among its fine Abbott Memorial Library. The contract for building the new addition to Amos Abbott & Co's woolen mill has been let to Horace Purrington & Co., of Waterville. The contract calls for the erection of brick work including the foundation, but not the wood work which will be done by the day by Dexter people. The materials, mostly excavated, are all furnished by the contractors. Work will be commenced on the foundation at once and the erection of the building pushed to an early completion. The contract price is withheld.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Landon left for Waterville on their wheels yesterday for a few days' visit.

A fire broke out yesterday in the upholstery of a curious nature. The driver of the Charleston team which runs from town to the village has taken to bright shining covers off the cushions and had them for a time. Some was the pull's rags had started up and fire.

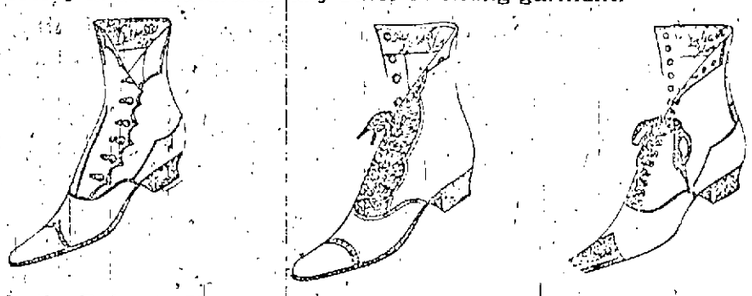
So called "Common Sense" or "Foot Form" shoes without grace and style are as unnecessary and unnatural as any other ill-fitting garment.



In the Delsarte Shoes, we have included all the latest shapes and toes together with the newest styles of uppers and kinds of material in tan and black, welt and light turn soles. No need for saying more. The name, "Delsarte," stands for everything that is new and desirable.

The Situation.

While in this writing no official information has been received confirming the report that the Cape Verde fleet is still at Santiago de Cuba, the authorities at Washington are satisfied that the news already at hand is reliable and are proceeding on the assumption that Admiral Cervera's vessels are in that harbor, the mouth of which is closely guarded by Commodore Schley. With Schley occupying a position that makes him complete master of the situation, it is stated that he will be left to work out the problem of Santiago, thus leaving Admiral Sampson free to renew operations at Porto Rico, or to co-operate with the land forces at Havana.

In the meantime the situation at Madrid is an extremely critical one for the Government. The dissatisfaction among the people increases every day, and a London dispatch announces that the Emperor Joseph of Austria has advised the Queen Regent to prepare to fly, and her mother is said to have given her the same advice. The defeat of the Spanish fleet, or its practical elimination as a factor by being bottled up in Santiago harbor, it is contended is bound to precipitate an outbreak among Lerroux's people. The Queen Regent is determined to remain, but the fact that she has been strongly advised to leave Madrid before the storm breaks shows how the situation is regarded by Spaniards.

Activity in naval and army circles continues, and it seems as if the policy of the Administration to hold the Philippines to which points adequate forces are to be forwarded with General Merritt in command, to take possession of Porto Rico and form Havana.

War Measures.

A Washington despatch to the New York Tribune, referring to Tuesday's session of the House, says: Although the House of Representatives was in session less than two hours today it passed an even half dozen war measures. Two of them were reported from the Committee on Military Affairs, and after brief explanations were unanimously passed. One provided for an increase of the number of Army hospital stewards (now limited by law to 100) during the continuance of the existing war. The other one amended and extended the provisions of existing law for the trial and sentence by summary court-martial of enlisted men of the Army for minor military offenses.

Three bills were called up by Chairman Boutelle of the Committee on Naval Affairs. One of them provided for the reorganization of the hospital corps of the Navy, which, according to the Surgeon-General, is in an unsatisfactory condition owing to lack of legislation. Some of the Democrats declined to allow this bill to be considered (unanimous consent being refused) unless Chairman Boutelle would admit an amendment limiting the operation of the act to the period covered by the existing war, and he finally yielded in order to hasten action. It is expected that the Senate will strike out the limitation, which seems to be unwise and unnecessary, as one of the objects of the measure is to put the hospital corps of the Navy on the same footing as that of the Army, which has rendered such efficient and satisfactory service since early in the Civil War, when it was reorganized on its present basis.

The second measure offered by Chairman Boutelle was one to validate certain appointments of officers in the navy which were made to meet sudden and pressing exigencies prior to the passage of the law authorizing such appointments. It was explained that this was substantially the same as a resolution passed in 1861, to validate certain appointments made by President Lincoln under similar circumstances, and it was passed without objection.

After a brief explanation by Chairman Boutelle the Senate amendments to the House joint resolution providing for the organization and enrollment of the United States auxiliary fleet for coast defence were concurred in without division or a disenting vote. The amendments limit to 3,000 the number of men to be thus enrolled, and reduce from $4,000,000 to $3,000,000 the appropriation for the purchase or hire of vessels to be manned by the auxiliary force.

The difficulty of obtaining suitable vessels for the transportation of troops to Manila induced the War Department to recommend that American register be granted to the Zealandia, a steamship built in England, but now owned by American citizens and sailing under the Hawaiian flag. The recommendation was unanimously approved by the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, and when Chairman Payne called up the bill today there was no objection to its consideration or passage. The bill passed the Senate yesterday and will undoubtedly become a law to-morrow as the Zealandia is expected to arrive at San Francisco from Honolulu on Thursday morning, and the Government is in urgent need of her services as a military transport.

The bicycle patrolmen of New York city were notably criticised by the department to wear cloth leggings in place of the leather gaiters worn during the winter months. The men are complaining that the cloth leggings are too warm at the time of year, and that they keep the legs burning up for tight.

Charles G. Kilborne, the one-legged tricycle rider who has been making a tour of England, has return to America. He will follow the national circuit.

The race-promoting clubs are not living up to the rules of the L. A. W. in relation to the registration of riders. The rules demand that the register number of each rider must be inserted in entry blanks and score cards of program race. At the Manhattan French meet, Saturday this rule was disregarded, and twenty-six entries in the amateur national championship the registration number of ten riders was published. In other cases the numbers of the competitors were omitted by their clubs. The Racing Board adopted the registration rule for the professionals in order that proper credit be and protect racing from tricksters, schemers, the multiple racers attempting to compete under their assumed names. In contrast stands the promoters claim that the riders are to publish the names of the riders upon the programme, due to the method of the racing men to place them on their entry blanks.

Dress reform in cycling circles continues to be seriously affected. Various little tricks of dress have been introduced by women which are so arm-like and so triumphantly meritorious that it may be said they are permanent adjuncts. The national colors have been utilized about every possible way and a many dainty new combinations have been made of them that are strikingly observing. One claims that the present flood of patriotism may accomplish the feat of changing the style of headgear worn by women cyclists. Every day that the war lasts the wheels are out there are seen many women with the dashing hats that are worn by the United States cavalry. These hats are strikingly becoming, and have the further merit of being dressy. They protect the face from the sun and rain. The quantity of being worn is something new in women's hats, and some of those who have adopted the style of head covering for the wheel declare that they will never return to Tam o' Shanters and the like. The trouble with the felt hats is that the brims offer a good mark for the wind, and they cannot be satisfactorily fastened in order that they may stay on the tops. They are most secure when pulled firmly over the head, and this cannot be done by those who wear coils of hair behind. The hat has to be designed for the hat.

The tendency to be economical and get a bicycle too big for the youngster, so they go with an overcoat, in order that it may fit him later is common. On wheels bought in this way, the boys and girls are apt to stretch themselves by having to grant a speech to the pedals. The error is still being committed by grandfathers. Boys and girls of less than twelve years are taken for rides at distances much beyond their strength. Generally speaking, juvenile wheels are heavier and harder running than those made for adults. Children are enduring and sprightly when with their parents, and they try to refrain from complaining. They are truly "sporty." The man who takes his boy and girl out for a six or eight mile walk on a Sunday and returns with them tottering from sheer exhaustion is not an unfamiliar figure, and now the spectacle of parents riding wheels with children of seven and eight years pedaling away at their sides is becoming equally common. Family parties of the kind are well enough if the trip is a short one, but riders of experience who are acquainted with the pleasures and trials of riding, and are critical of everything they see, say that there are many children being deserted and otherwise injured because of being taken out on long trips. Their comments are substantiated somewhat by the fact that on any Sunday there can be seen men and women of heavy build coasting and tugging and sometimes helping children along, all because they have laid out a certain trip for themselves, regardless of whether the little ones were equal to the task or not. A physician who is a member of the New York A. C. has said that most children are permitted to do too much wheeling apart from the question of taking long rides. In the opinion of this doctor, school boys under 10 years old should not ride half so much as they do. What is permissible depends chiefly upon their development, he explains, and therefore no positive rules can be laid down. He thinks, however, that growing children are stunted both physically and mentally by being permitted to indulge in cycling with only their own enthusiasm and encouragement to check them.

I have been set only considering the advisability of going into the bicycle outfitting business," said a Broadway bicycle outfitter to a reporter of the New York Sun. "The money! Well, there is more profit in the cheapest kind of clothing now than there is in any kind of wheels. What put the idea into my head is the number of persons who wear suits and do not ride wheels, and the fact that not only they, at many bona fide riders are paying more attention to their rigs than to the wheels they use. They will carry bicycles but not a cycling suit. They will stop at the machine and will ride any old thing, but they keep looking nice. It is an every-day experience in our cycling stations to have men and women in full cycling rigs come to have lessons. When experienced enough to do this, they are up ready to take their first ride, and all intent they have a suit. It takes from weeks to find out what they want in the way of a costume. It takes another week or two for them to hear criticisms and to make up their mind how becoming it is to them. When they are satisfied that their suits are right, they begin to take lessons. The first thing they learn to ride the bicycle some acres also than my place to buy bicycles.

The Subject of the Maine Board of Agriculture Bulletin for June.

The subject for the Maine Board of Agriculture bulletin for June is "The Song Birds," as follows:

The Board of Agriculture is in receipt of a communication from a gentleman in Massachusetts, who is interested in the study of birds, in which he says: "Do you not think it would be well for the Board, in its next bulletin, to call the attention of the people of Maine to the great importance of the protection of the song birds? Many of our birds are being killed off in the great battle of life, and unless some steps are taken to protect them they will be in danger of being exterminated. The Board of Agriculture is the proper agency to do this work, and I hope it will take the matter up and do what it can to protect our birds."

The Board of Agriculture is in sympathy with the writer of the above letter, and would be glad to do this work if it could, but there is no fund available for the purpose. The Board has very little money to spend for ornament of this kind, and it is not in the great business of the State to do the work of protecting the birds. The Bird Law is a dead letter, and there is no fund available for enforcing the law. The Board can do a little in the way of protecting the birds by a few words in its bulletin, but it can do very little. The Bird Law is a dead letter, and there is no fund available for enforcing the law. The Board can do a little in the way of protecting the birds by a few words in its bulletin, but it can do very little.

INTIBE PARTY DROWNED.

Nashua, N. H., May 26. Information received at the Argonian colony, here shows that an entire Nashua and Haverhill, Mass., Armenian Klondike party of seven men were drowned by the breaking of the ice in Frasier lake on May 2. Five of the men were from Nashua and two from Haverhill. They left here March 4 and were last heard from April 9 when they were just leaving Fort Lake. All were skilled men except one from Nashua, who had about $100. Jake Boyoolon, one of the party, and just graduated as a civil engineer.

SEA TRAGEDY.

Fifty-three Persons Drowned.

Calcutta, India, May 26. Further particulars regarding the disastrous collision between the British India steamer Mecca and her sister ship Lunda show the former had three hundred persons on board. The Mecca was towing the Lindula on Tuesday, the latter being disabled, when the hawser parted and the two steamers crashed together. The Mecca sank and her captain and 52 others were drowned. The Lindula took off the survivors and brought them to this port.

EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Wont Newton Has a $20,000 Blaze.

Newton, Mass., May 26. West Newton was visited by a fire which caused nearly $20,000 loss early this morning. A large planing mill was destroyed and a three-story brick block belonging to Wm. F. Pettigrew, a block owned by C. E. Hall and several other buildings were damaged. All losses are partially covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered soon after 2 o'clock in the planing mill by a policeman and a general alarm was given as the blaze spread rapidly. The mill was soon wholly in the power of the flames which also had begun to reach out to the other buildings. The contents of the Pettigrew and the Hall blocks were caught in their beds and time to remove only very little property. St. Bernard's Catholic church also was in danger, but its slate roof and brick walls saved it.

After two hours of hard work the firemen got control of the flames. Mr. Pettigrew places his loss at $75,000 and Mr. Hall at $3000. Other losses will bring the total up to about $20,000.

PENSIONS.

BRAVE MEN.

A Mob Lynched a Colored Boy.

Salisbury, Md., May 26. Caleb King, a negro, aged about 18, was taken from the jail here early this morning, hanged to a tree and shot to pieces. He was awaiting trial on the charge of shooting Herman Kenny, a white boy. The shooting occurred Saturday last, and Kenny died yesterday. This morning about 2 o'clock a number of men who live in Kenny's parents' neighborhood drove into town, and demanded the keys to the jail, which Sheriff Dashiell refused to surrender. The lynchers then broke the jail doors down, forced from the cell in which King was confined, and dragged him out. The negro all the while fighting and pleading for mercy. A light clothesline was tied about his neck, thrown over a limb and the other end of the rope was strung up. The rope, however, was not strong enough to hold the weight of the negro, and he fell, apparently unconscious. After lying in this condition for a few minutes he regained his feet and made an effort to escape. His captors shot him through the body and beat and stabbed him. They placed the rope around his neck and strung him up the second time. As he dangled in the air at least twenty pistol bullets were fired into his body, which was left dangling in the air while the lynchers dispersed.

BOUND FOR SING SING.

Former Official Sentenced.

New York, May 26. John W. Fielding, former deputy commissioner of public works, was today sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Maschke in Brooklyn to two years and six months in Sing Sing prison and to pay a fine of $2171. This is 10 per cent. of the amount he was responsible for losing to the city by conspiring at the trial and allowance of fraudulent claims against the city of Brooklyn. The judge signified his willingness to grant a stay pending an appeal to release the prisoner on a $16,000 bond.

GALLANT COMMANDER OF A GALLANT BATTLESHIP.

Key West, May 23. 10:30 A. M. Capt. Chas. E. Clark and other officers of the Oregon came ashore at 10 o'clock and reported as well on board and the ship in good condition.

The Oregon left San Francisco on March 19, and arrived at Callao April 3, left there April 7, arriving at Rio Janeiro April 30. The battleship reached Bahia on May 8 and touched at Barbados on May 18. At the latter place the warship was quarantined but she was only detained one day. The battleship arrived off Jupiter Inlet on May 24, and then communicated with Washington. The Oregon picked up the cruiser Marietta, and the dynamite cruiser Niethroy between Rio Janeiro and Bahia but she parted company with them after a few hundred miles.

Capt. Clark said the crew of the Oregon had suffered much from the heat by crossing twice through the tropics. All the way along, he added, we were wondering where the Spaniards were and we never ascertained that fact until we reached here.

"Did you know, now?" Capt. Clark was asked.

"Well," he replied, "I think we can make a very accurate guess."

The Oregon will remain here for orders. She coaled four times on her trip, at Callao, Sandy Point, Rio Janeiro and Barbadoes, and reached here with plenty of coal and water on board. The first news the officers and crew of the Oregon had of the Manila victory was at Rio Janeiro where Capt. Clark received a telegram from Washington.

CHILDREN CREMATED.

End Result of a Fire in Michigan.

Iron Mountain, Mich., May 26. The residence of Al Richter, West B street, was destroyed by fire last night. Two children, a boy aged 9, and a girl aged 11, were burned to a crisp, and two others, aged 4 and 6, a boy and a girl, were so badly burned that they cannot live. It is not known how the fire originated, but the prevailing belief is that it was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the theater. Richter and his wife and nine small children occupied sleeping apartments on the second floor. Five of the children escaped uninjured, but they were totally purse-proud Richter and wife escaped by jumping from a window.

KITCHEN FURNITURE.

Gun Shipped to Cadiz From Germany.

Gibraltar, May 26. (Delayed in transmission.) Information obtained here from a trustworthy source says that a consignment of forty Krupp guns suitable for forts or battleships, have been sent from Essen, Germany, to Cadiz, and are now on their way through Spain. It is said that they passed through the German, French and Spanish custom houses as "kitchen furniture."

SITUATION OF FLEETS.

Key West, Fla., May 26. Definite news from the American squadrons operating in Cuban waters was received here this afternoon, fully confirming the general situation outlined in these dispatches.

Commodore Schley is believed to be off Santiago de Cuba today, and definite information as to the exact situation in so far as it affects Admiral Cervera's squadron, may be expected tonight or tomorrow.

Rear Admiral Sampson is in a position to proceed quickly to the assistance of Commodore Schley with any or all of his ships on receipt of definite word from Commodore Schley and at the same time be remains within striking distance of Havana.

If, however, Commodore Schley reports that Admiral Cervera is bottled up at Santiago de Cuba, the naval view is that he will be permitted to finish the business at that point with the ships now under his command.

ANXIOUS TO VIEW GLADSTONE'S REMAINS.

London, May 26. Remarkably impressive scenes have been witnessed at Westminster since 2 o'clock this morning, when the arrivals commenced of those anxious to view the remains of Mr. Gladstone. The line formed was constantly augmented by all classes of people, from peers, cabinet ministers, members of the House of Commons, military and naval officers and clergymen, to costermongers, old and young, until 6 o'clock, when the doors were opened, the procession commenced to stream past the catafalque. The latter had lighted candles at each corner and a large gilt cross at its head.

By 10 o'clock it was computed that one hundred persons to the minute were passing the body, and it was over 40,000 people had taken a last glance at the remains of the great statesman.

Sir William Harcourt, the liberal leader, arrived at noon.

BODY OF ITALIAN FOUND.

Boston, May 26. The Boston police were notified this morning that the body of a murdered Italian had been found on the Boston and Maine railroad tracks near Winchester. They were informed that the body resembled the description of Antonio di Bassi, the alleged murderer of Jas. M. Ellis, foreman of the street cleaning department of Boston. Inspector Wilder Abbott left for Winchester to see if he can identify the body. The man had evidently been killed during the night by a train.

A SUCCESSFUL SECOND SESSION.

Portland, Me., May 26. At the second day's session of the New England Eclectic Society at The Preble House, the attendance was somewhat increased. The forenoon was occupied in the reporting of cases and the reading of essays, prominent among which was one by Dr. Stephen B. Mann, of Waterbury, Conn., president of the National Eclectic Medical Association.

The election of delegates to the various State conventions were also effected as follows:

For New Hampshire, Dr. W. F. Templeton, Manchester; for Vermont, Dr. Henry J. Potter, Bennington; for Massachusetts, Dr. W. F. Allen, Taunton; Connecticut, Dr. Titus S. Hodge, Torrington; Rhode Island, Dr. Darius M. Rowe, Providence.

In the election of officers this afternoon Dr. Stephen B. Mann, of Waterbury, Ct., was made president.

A LIFTING DEMONSTRATION.

Providence, R. I., May 26. Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon the First regiment R. I. Volunteers arrived in this city from Camp Dyer, on its way to Camp Alger at Falls Church, Va. The fact that the regiment was to parade through the principal streets of the city, resulted in bringing out an exhibition of patriotic enthusiasm which has not been witnessed here since the stirring days of 1861. The streets were literally packed with a crowd which shouted itself hoarse as the boys in blue, under the command of Col. Chas. W. Abbott, late of the United States army, marched up West Minister street.

All the mills and workshops had shut down and the schools were suspended. The regiment made a splendid appearance, marching like veteran troops of regular army. The march began at 4 o'clock by the steamer Block Island which will take them to Jersey City.

FIRE IN CHELSEA.

Boston, May 26. The buildings and machinery of the Gayhead Brick Co. on Front street, Chelsea, were destroyed by fire early this morning. The buildings were of wood and one story high. They were valued at $8,000 and the machinery at $20,000. During the fire Capt. Jones of Hosemen Duncan and Capt. Brown of the Chelsea fire department were injured by falling brick. The factory had been closed for more than a year. The cause of the fire is unknown.

STORM APPROACHING.

Boston, May 26. Storm signals have been ordered up on the New England coast. A storm has developed in the middle Atlantic coast which will cause gales on the south New England and New Jersey coast tonight, with thick weather and rain.

FIFTEEN MEN ILL.

Boston, May 26. A special to the Herald from Providence says: The cruiser San Francisco is on her way to Boston with fifteen of her men ill.

WANTS TO SEND 200 ONLY.

Nashua, N. H., May 26. Governor Ramsdell has telegraphed Secretary of War Alger asking that the New Hampshire quot 250 men instead of the quota of the front under the President's first call for troops, she be called upon for only 200 under the second call, and that the State Guard, Battery, artillery, be quota, this time be made uniform that branch of the militia. Gov. Ramsdell advises the secretary of the Portsmouth recruiting station of the navy, that he decided in naval reserve force of at least 200 and asked that none be sent there.

PERMITTED TO ORGANIZE A BATTERY.

Lewiston, May 26. A special from Portland to the Journal says: Adjutant General Richards has granted permission to Harry E. Milliken of Portland, to organize a battery of light artillery here. Seventy men have enlisted. They will drill unmounted with old field pieces and will have no uniforms, rules called by the State, but which case the State will uniform them and the government furnish guns.

FIGHT WAS HOPELESS.

But Forced to It by Public Opinion at Manila.

Hong Kong, May 26. Capt. Concha, of the ill fated Spanish cruiser Don Juan de Austria, destroyed at the battle of Manila, says that the Spanish commanders were quite aware that fighting was hopeless, but were forced to it by the strong public opinion at Manila. He and other officers wished to steam out of the harbor to meet the Americans but Admiral Montejo forbade that move.

Capt. Concha says the Spanish fleet was in a disgraceful condition. The engines of the cruiser Don Antonio de Ulloa were broken, the Castilla was leaking and needed engines to keep the water under, the Don Juan de Austria had only two guns that could be fired, the Marquis del Duero had only one gun, while the Don de Cuba and the Isla de Luzon had only their decoys protected. He declares, however, that but the Americans not withdrawn by 11 o'clock the Spanish intended to steam out and die to the last gun.

COMMODORE SCHLEY

To Work Out Santiago De Cuba Problem.

Key West, May 26. 10:10 A. M. The movements of the American vessels under the three squadron commanders, beyond the generally accepted fact that Commodore Schley's squadron is now in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba, at the eastern end of the island, while the Blockading squadron under Commodore Watson is thought to be on duty along the western and northern coast of the island, are now shrouded with only slight uncertainty. The composition of the three squadrons has been changed, but the exact complement and the names of the ships under each commander is not permitted, for strategic reasons, to be telegraphed. Concerning the statement that Admiral Cervera's ships are bottled up at Santiago de Cuba, it has been accepted that Commodore Schley could maintain the blockade of the harbor there and annihilate the Spanish fleet if it attempts a movement along the southern coast in an attempt to reach Havana. With Commodore Schley at Santiago de Cuba, Rear Admiral Sampson would be in a position to proceed westward and effect a junction of the two powerful squadrons on return towards Havana to resume operations in that vicinity.

It is now presented as a fact that Commodore Schley is to be permitted to work out the problem of Santiago de Cuba.

COMPLETED ORGANIZATION.

Lewiston, Me., May 26. A Bridgeford special to the Journal says: The volunteer reserves have completed organization and on Thursday sent word to Adj't Gen. Richards that they are ready for business. They hope to be in under the new call for troops. Benj. Coolidge, former sergeant of Co. G, is captain.

BUCKSPORT NEWS.

Reported That More Torpedoes Will Be Placed in River.

Rumored That Eastern Passage Will Also be Mined and That the Fort Will be Garrisoned—Another Veteran Who Was With Dewey—Noted.

(Special to Whig and Courier.)

Bucksport, May 26. It now seems probable that Major Hoxie will soon return to place additional torpedoes in the river here. A large reel of submarine cable arrived for the purpose today. It is stated on good authority that the eastern passage is to be mined, and that the fort will be garrisoned with men at once.

Miss Julia Cudwick arrived by train this evening.

Mrs. Jane A. Ellbridge died at her home on Mechanic street Thursday morning after a lingering illness. She is survived by a husband, Mr. Samuel Ellbridge. Funeral Friday at 3 P. M.

Mrs. William Folsom, Miss Mabel Eaton, Fernum, Mr. Dustin Fernum and Mrs. Pearl Folsom are at present playing with a stock company at Nahant, N. B. They will arrive here for the summer about the first of July.

Mr. James Gibbons, another Bucksport veteran served under Lieut. George Dewey at the bombardment of Fort Fisher in January, 1865.

Capt. Fred Kerns of the Herald is in a region where he is likely to witness some naval demonstrations. He sailed last week from Bermudaoes for Turk's Island. Evidently the owners of the Herald do not greatly stand in awe of the Spanish fleet.

There is a rumor that the cottage owners of Alamoosook have petitioned the government to have torpedoes placed in the Orland river to keep the Spanish fleet away. Probably the government would be willing to take the torpedoes from the narrows for this purpose. It would be a great accommodation to those interested in the navigation of the river over there than they are here.

On Wednesday evening Miss Marion P. Stover gave a reception for the senior class of the seminary at her home on Main street. The seminary faculty and Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Richardson were also invited. The entertainment for the evening was unique and interesting. Each guest was presented with a pencil and neat card, on which were places for 40 words. Suspended from the furniture and walls of the room were forty colored domino, the answers to each being named with known flower. More or less success was met with by the guests until nearly all of the conundrums had been answered. Ice cream and cake were served, when a count was made to see who had guessed the largest number. The prize, consisting of a fine bunch of pink and white carnations was awarded to Mr. E. C. Wass. Shortly after 10 the party dispersed, with high opinion of Miss Stover's ability to entertain.

THE ARMY TOPICS

SUGGESTED BY THE WAR.

The Army Staff and Line—Some Misunderstandings Explained—Divisions of the Work of Handling an Army.

The public needs kindergarten instruction about the army, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. The army is at the same time a fighting machine and a great business and industrial machine. Its organization includes staff and line. Line officers command fighting men, drill them, feed and lead them in battle. Staff officers do the business of the army and command nobody but laborers and clerks. They require different training but one is as important as the other. Roughly, and practically the Secretary of War is head of the staff and the President commander of the line, though there is no such technical distinction. Good Von Moltke was the chief of staff of the German army.

Persons are discovered whose only notion of the army staff is a group of plumed heroes who gallop after a commander in the field. This is the personal staff and is a small matter. Every general officer has one or more aides de camp and the commander of the army in the field has several. They are not purely ornamental. They write his letters and carry his orders and serve him in many ways, but they have no relation to the permanent general staff which clusters right or left behind the War Department and carries on more business even in time of peace than the greatest manufacturing or commercial corporation in the country. In time of war its labors are stupendous and taxing of vigorous mind and big energies. Without an efficient staff the line is helpless, the moving machine breaks down. A great war in Europe is as inevitable as necessary as a great general Carnot organized victory for the French Republic. Schlachtbort repulsed the shattered Prussian army after Jena. Stratton or Grant in army of clerks and plowboys in our civil war. Without them Napoleon, Blücher, Grant would have been helpless.

Fighting is the small, at least or an easy work. The popular imagination conceives an army as thousands of men with guns led by hundreds of men with swords, crawling on parade or dashing upon the enemy. This is the spectacular final result. It is the finish of a long race, after months of training. Those hundreds of thousands of men are not clothed with mystic mystic wonderful feet by the ravens and wafted over the country on hippogriffs and they do not scatter by caves of the earth and fight polyphemus, like other human beings. They have to be fed and clothed and sheltered and moved about from place to place. And like all soldiers they have to be armed and equipped. This is the business of the regular staff and it is an infinite business. Few civilian have the smallest conception of its magnitude and complexity.

Our army staff contains 10 departments, the best of it is Record Branch which deals with historical matters with a brigadier general at the head of it. Some are simple and relatively important, like the inspector general's department, which reports to the chief signal officer, others like the paymaster general and the medical department are easily understood. The great bureaus of the quartermaster and commissary. Those requiring most technical skill are the engineers and ordnance. The former clothes, feeds, shelters and moves the troops, building entrenchments, supplies and with naked companies, fortifications, provide transportation, build bridges, wagons and mules and transport supplies. The engineers make surveys and build forts and bridges and the Ordnance Bureau selects, buys, distributes and cares for all weapons and munitions from siege guns to rifle rounds. The adjutant general is the clerical department of the army, issues orders and receives reports. These bureaus promptly bring up the army and the important bureaus adjutant, commissary, quartermaster are represented in every regular and post. The signal, engineer and ordnance officers of high rank and the staff officers are detachments detailed from the line in time of peace. Most of them employ civilian clerks as well as laborers and their minor duties require no military training only energy, fidelity and capacity. These are the positions to which the President is appointing so many civilians.

Chickamauga Park, where the government is preparing to mobilize troops in the South is an immense reservation of 5,000 acres of leased or dedicated land. This land is in charge of the government and patrolled by regular guards.

This is the third time since 1805 that troops have been camped in this historic and renowned field. In 1805 several regiments of Regulars were stationed there during the formal dedication of the park, and in 1895 the 1st Infantry spent a month at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., and encamped there for several weeks.

Chickamauga battlefield is the only place in the Department of the Gulf where a large number of troops can be mobilized with every convenience. The Chattanooga, Rome and Southern railway skirts the western boundary of the park and has two stations just three miles from the camp. There are nearly six thousand acres of woods cleared of all underbrush in Chickamauga Park and 1500 acres of high and open field. Nearly one hundred and fifty thousand soldiers fought in this present condition during the famous battle and nearly all the military roads used during the battle have been improved and are now in a state of excellent preservation.

When establishing the park the government had an eye to making a mobilization ground of it, and experienced military men saw that its broad expanse is second to none in the world for tactical instruction and practice maneuvering. There are within the limits of the park over one hundred and ten miles of improved roadway as level as a floor. Among the historic spots is Snodgrass Hill, familiar to every veteran who participated in the battle. This can be seen in the background from the northeast slope, recently cleared of all woods and underbrush. On the summit of a large steep observation tower 340 feet in height overlooking the surrounding battlefield has been erected. This hill was occupied by the Confederate troops during the battle of Chickamauga, but being at a strategic point was repeatedly attacked by the Union forces. Just one mile away is Dyer Field, where the main body of troops will be encamped, or rather where their quarters will be established. This field was also contested by hard fighting, and in the field where the Confederate General John B. Hood, at the head of his Alabama troops, lost a leg. The Vittetoe House is four miles away from Snodgrass Hill and supposed to be the government. It is an old-time log cabin and was used as a hospital during the last days of the war. Lee & Gordon's Mills is a place famous in history. It is situated on the banks of Chickamauga Creek, which winds through the southern portion of the park, and was used by both armies at different times during the campaign. This mill still stands, although its machinery, for more than a quarter of a century, has been replaced with old fashioned looms.

PRIZES FOR VICTORIOUS TARS.

Reward Depends on Strength of Captured Warships—Custom Probably Originated in Days of Pirates.

Do the men who officers and crew of the United States Navy will have to wait for pay for years in time of peace should they actually seize money in time of war for capture of enemy's war ships of other countries, and Admiral Henry Erben, commander of the harbor patrol during the Atlantic coast, who was speaking of the bounty provided for in Section 4635 of the Revised Statutes, which says that "the commander of every fleet, squadron or single ship of the United States shall be entitled to receive the value of every enemy's vessel they cause to be captured, destroyed or sunk, and shall be entitled to receive the value of the ship of the United States ship making the capture, to be distributed among the officers and crew of the United States ship making the capture, according to the rules prescribed in the act of Congress approved March 3, 1893."

As some of the ships captured by Admiral Dewey in Manila Bay were in fact to some of his own ships, though he was superior to his best ships, a prize court will have to decide how much money will be distributed among the men of the Dewey fleet. It will be at least $150,000 even if there were about 1,000 men on the Spanish vessels at time Admiral Dewey will get at least $1000 and possibly more. A full court-martial of the two ships would give, in from $10,000 to $12,000. In the case that the officers and the ships were allowed to divide what they captured on land from the enemy. This was called loots of war. With nearly all of the civilized nations decided to do away with the custom of confiscating the property of honest traders and in only there is nothing to be divided among the land forces and the boots to soldiers were belied. Therefore the men and officers in our regular army will have to get what they can so without consideration of a million, but glory in addition to their regular pay, which was the other and more of the navy in times of war have not only the salary, but they also stand a excellent chance for rewards in the form of prize money for capturing warships or capturing the warship of the enemy.

When Admiral Erben was asked how this up might equally be compensation to the fighting forces of the nation came to be established he replied that he had not been paid for some time, but he knew of no reason why there should not be some reward for greater than soldiers.

The liability of booty and loot among the land forces of Admiral Erben's command is the result of confiscating the private property of the inhabitants of an invaded territory. Up to that time the regular and militia combined land soldiers were upon the same plane with the sea soldiers with respect to shipping the value of the goods of the enemy which was captured in war.

But when even the nations have come to the conclusion that it is best not to take the property of non-combatants on land the extigencies of war still demand that a State should capture not only all the war ships of an enemy but also all merchant ships which could relieve the overcrowded ports which with you are not about to with the means of subsistence, which is as necessary as ammunition. Therefore there still is a large amount of property to be captured on the ships of a regular navy.

Until the treaty of Paris in 1856 nearly all the civilized nations commissioned privateers. In the terms of Paris the nations which entered into the treaty abolished privateering and decided to rely strictly upon the regular navies for the capture of merchantmen as well as of warships. As the United States has no privateers to capture merchant ships the navy has to do so. And as an incentive to keep the men on board and watch the government gives to the officers and men half of the value of the prize so captured.

It is admitted much harder to capture a warship than it is to take a merchant ship. Therefore it was reasoned by Congress in making the law for prize money that if a crew received one half of the value of a merchant ship captured it ought, at least, to get something for taking a dangerous warship, otherwise there might be greater activity on the part of the navy to go cruising around after harmless merchant ships than to capture the formidable ships of war.

Another thing which no doubt entered largely into the matter of making such a law was that sailors, not the bounty. Bounty in the sense in which the Legislature of 1898 the money paid to soldiers by the national and State government before entering the army to get them to enlist when it was a question of security of men who were willing to enlist. In the latter part of the War of the Rebellion the bounty paid to some men from various sources amounted to as much as $1,200 for merely enlisting. Sailors and marine soldiers got much smaller sum and as an offset it was thought that if they captured a warship they ought to be remunerated for their deeds over and above their small regular pay.

Payment at the rate of so much for each man on the side of the enemy either captured or sunk undoubtedly originated in the early days, when nations employed the services of well-known pirates, to harass the ships of an enemy. As the pirates were entirely mercenary it was absolutely necessary to provide them for the capture of warships, according to some established rules.

Other could have no privateers the enormous of all merchant ships captured but of course there would be no incentive for pirates to sink or capture warships which, even if not sunk two-thirds of the crew would be captured in battle as to be worse than useless. Many of the great admirals of the English navy in early days started in as common sea-of-pirates. Beets "It was the offers of prize money on the part of the British which brought them into the fold of the regular navy, and made them useful citizens of our land."

Of the value of the incentive that prevailed in the British navy in the days of sailing ships, Admiral Erben said: "Why, I have been in the navy for 50 years and I know a great many brave men who have been waiting all these years for a chance to cover themselves with glory!"

"Patriotism is a great thing," said Admiral Erben, with a broad smile. "I know a great many brave patriots, but neither in this war nor in the War of the Rebellion, when the same custom of giving prize money prevailed, have I ever known any patriots to refuse the money." Capt. I. P. Gilmore, senior aid to the Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, while discussing the subject of prize money for the men in the navy said: "The custom undoubtedly arose from the practice of giving money to pirates for capturing the ships and cargoes. Sir Francis Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh, although afterward great admirals in the English Navy, were originally only pirates. They went into the English service largely on account of the prize money offered. Whereas the navy has been made to conform more and more to the customs of civilization, the navy still says, in effect, that if we are to have a navy we must have officers and men who are not combatants in any sense of the term, which it makes the rights of private property still are respected by all of the civilized nations, and private property is still subject to confiscation. The rule is to be observed in sight of the enemy. And in a case that rule obtains in a merchant ship I propose it will be found it is quite right to pay prizes to naval men for capturing warships."

When we recollect that the men in the army who are exposed to all the dangers as naval men do not receive any additional pay, it will be seen at once that the matter of giving naval men a share of the money paid for the capture of warships is not so much put upon the ground that it will be brought up after the war, and be the cause of Congress to pay the officers and men in the Army and Navy, would be a very high honor, such a thing was settled a long while ago with this extra reward in prize money.

WAR TOPICS.

SEA POWER AS A SAFEGUARD OF PEACE.

It is to be observed that the most bellicose of our officers have to wait until we have an army capable of to protect us against the invasion of the enemy. Of course, we have navy for defense, but it would be a very poor defense if it be not equal to the navy of the United States ship making the capture, destroying or sinking the enemy's vessel. Admiral Erben said that ship be of inferior force and of our navy fighting the ship of it be not equal to the ship of the United States ship making the capture, destroying or sinking the enemy's vessel.

WHAT LOBSTER SHIPS AND SHIPS ARE GOOD FOR.

Now as the war is to be ship against great ships, as a rule, the best troops in the largest numbers will be carried to specially as possible, and transported to the enemy's shores on the frigate of the nations. But war is not the business of the navy. It is well that it should be served by a small force of inferior guns, according to the circumstances, wholly in part of the ships, as well fitted for the field. But should the war be carried on the open ocean, the strength of the first line of the navy would be to fall the fleet of Spain, which is the only navy of the nation whose fleet is now cruising on the ocean. The Spanish navy is composed of the old ships, which are not equal to the ships of the United States navy, and of the new ships, which are not equal to the ships of the United States navy. POLAND SPRING HOUSE.

The Poland Spring House on the first of June will open its portals to its twenty-third season of its history. The remarkable growth of this house is due to its constant and unvarying success from season to season, and is probably without equal. Unlike other resorts Poland Spring is never affecting the climate of and overshadowing family of the old hill which brings great success with it, but leaves the failure where it goes not.

The patronage of Poland Spring is refined aristocratic and powerful, and to those patrons a summer in Poland is complete within a sojourn there. The climate, a combination of circumstances, cannot be matched by the mountains, which it rests on. Another reason for the success of this place is a result of the fact that they never exhaust visitors or prospective guests with overgrown gives, charms of the many beauties of which nature has endowed it. The Poland Spring House has a capacity of about 450, is handsomely designed and substantially built house.

EUROPE LOSES MANY MILLIONS.

The War Makes Quite a Difference to the Foreign Guests—American Tourists Stay at Home.

By the way of comparation for the money which the purse of Spanish warships is costing this country, for falsely kept in the country by the war many millions of dollars. In ordinary years this money goes to Europe and purchases old silver, china, paintings, sculptures, specimens of the nobility and other luxuries. If they are it stays at home in America, and is either expended or invested here. Consequently do not feel inclined to drain the country with the difficulty impartial.

"The plan for an American warship in this country is in vogue," said Governor Lowell, who he stepped off the St Paul at the end of her last trip as the property of the American line.

"The feeling that keeps them in the United States and keeps the money in the country is a good one. Many thousands of dollars have been paid to European ships, and it is time that business interests to stop it. Come from the shoulders of the people of the United States."

"Of course, I don't know, so does his family, and cases not only the United States, but also the Atlantic coast. He was speaking of the bounty provided for in Section 4635 of the Revised Statutes, which says that "the commander of every fleet, squadron or single ship of the United States shall be entitled to receive the value of every enemy's vessel they cause to be captured, destroyed or sunk, and shall be entitled to receive the value of the ship of the United States ship making the capture, destroying or sinking the enemy's vessel." INTELLIGENT MANUFACTURERS OF MINERAL LEATHER OILS.
We guarantee to save power and reduce friction. Our oils are manufactured for special purposes, not one oil for all kinds of machinery. We guarantee to save you money on your total oil bill and give you better goods than our competitors.
The Vacuum Oil Company have had over thirty years experience in manufacturing for all kinds of machinery. All goods as represented or no sale. Oil is the nature of your machinery and we will fit your requirements and if we cannot save you money in wear and tear of machinery, etc., we don't want your trade. The money at stake in the choice of an oil is vastly more than the cost of any oil whatever. One oil may go twice as far as another and its price may be twice as much. The cost of the oil is the same but the more durable one goes further in lubrication. Deal with the manufacturer who looks after your requirements rather than the man who cuts the price to get your trade.

To this end we are disposing of present up-to-date stock at prices never before offered in this section of this country. UNIVERSITY OF MAINE.

A Game of Ball Being Arranged For Saturday—Selection of Track Team—Notes.

[Special to Whig and Courier.]

Orono, May 26. Word has been received from Waterville that Colby has elected signal leaders, etc., and that they are making all preparations for a good rolling of the Colby-U. of M. game Saturday.

This letter was sent to Manager Stevens by a friend as a warning of what he might expect.

If fifty of our boys could go over to Waterville on Saturday they could make noise enough to drown out all the yelling which Colby would muster. Anyone who has been unable to get fifty or more fellows to go over on Saturday and secured rates have been secured on the railroad.

The report that the final track team, which would go to Brunswick in June, was to be picked from those making the best showing in the meet which was held on Wednesday, is untrue. Manager Peace stated this morning that the selection of men would not be made for one week or more, and he urged every man to keep in training.

The last meeting of the Debating Society was held tonight. The question under discussion was: Resolved, That the basis upon which Napoleon to the Island of St. Helena was justifiable and honorable on the part of England."

S. N. Edwards and G. F. Payzant were supports of the affirmative and H. M. Cleaves and F. C. Mitchell upheld the negative side.

Officers of the society for the coming year were also elected.

ORONO LOCALS.

Our correspondent writes: Homer Hoyland, of Argile, N. H., is registered at the Orono House.

W. J. Durgin has returned from a three days' visit at Vanceboro.

Mrs. F. D. Webster returns to Portland today, and will start for Minneapolis the first of next week to visit her son, George Hamlin, of the First regiment. Major Volunteers has been promoted to hospital steward.

A. B. McPheters and brother have received the contract to build a James Wallace house and they will begin work at once.

The report of the discovery of a man's body which had washed ashore at North Caribou, and the description given of him gave rise to the rumor that the body was that of John Smith, who disappeared from this place about two weeks ago. Many believe the body will be identified as that of Smith when his friends look the matter up.

Two Chinamen are in town making preparations to start a laundry on Main street in the shop formerly occupied by Frank Violett. If satisfactory arrangements can be made with regard to the supply of water and other necessities, they will begin operations the first of next week.

If our eyes are right, then go ahead. We are trying Hood's Sarsaparilla and not some cheap and worthless substitute.

The entries for the Maine Interscholastic Athletic Association meet to be held at Waterville on Saturday, June 4, have closed. The entries were to have closed last Saturday, but on account of the failure to receive Thornton's list, extension of time was granted from the fact that Thornton's manager wrote that he had entries at the proper time. As was expected, Portland and Bangor both failed to enter a team. The entries received include teams from Brunswick High, Coburn Classical Institute, Bath High, Thornton Academy, Cony High, and Edward Little High, Auburn.

Secretary Young, of the State Board of Health, has been experimenting lately with different kinds of cloth to ascertain the effects of the various disinfectants upon the cloth. One of the experiments is to boil the cloth in water for a certain time. The different effects are made note of in the advice given regarding the use of disinfectants.

The Daughters of the Begg mont, a recently organized circle of King's Daughters, will give a "Dewey Tea" Saturday afternoon and evening, in the vestry of the Central church. It will be a patriotic event and people interested in the Cuban relief fund can show their interest by attending. An orchestra will furnish music during the evening. The admission fee will be ten cents.

It has been decided to have the Maine Sport-riders' Association annual excursion in July, from the 13th to the 18th at Kingo.

PART 8 READY.

A Deeply Interesting Number of the Uncle Sam's Navy Portfolio.

There is one subject upon which there is very little general information in regard to the navy and weapons. That is the construction of the armor and the enormous guns which are now in use.

Part 8 of Uncle Sam's navy portfolio, which can only be secured through the Whig, as we have exclusive control of this magnificent publication, contains much graphic information upon this topic. Few people have any idea of the magnitude of the undertaking of building the huge guns or the formidable character of the armor. Part 8 gives pictures of the Bethlehem works and the process of construction. Photographs of the big ten-inch disappearing guns for coast fortifications gives a fine idea of modern protection as opposed to different from old ideas.

Among the greatest points of interest is a representation of the battle of Manila, with the pleasure of the United States ships of the hero Dewey's fleet and the Spanish ships. A bit of history attaching to the memorable naval battle is also given. Other illustrations serve to make up a fine number. Everybody wants this set of Uncle Sam's Navy, the finest collection ever offered the public.

Parts 1 to 8 inclusive are now ready for delivery at this office and all should have them. We have distributed thousands of them in the past few weeks and there is a great demand for them constantly. Cut out the coupon appearing in each issue of the Whig and bring or send it to us with ten cents and secure any number.

HIGH BRED STOCK FOR MAINE.

Forest J. Harmon, of Corinna, has just purchased from the famous Hood farm, Lowell, Mass., a very fine Jersey heifer, Misty 17th of Hood farm. Her sire is Mint and her dam, Brown Bessie 2nd of Hood farm. Mint is a double grandson of the great Combination 4880, and Brown Bessie 2nd of Hood farm is the daughter of Brown Bess a Son.

Mr. Harmon also purchased a fine yearling sow by Rice Lee VII, and also a choice pair of young pigs which should make the foundation for a thoroughbred Berkshire. The superiority of Hood farm stock is recognized by breeders everywhere.

SCHOOL MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

Patriotic and Interesting Events of Wednesday and Thursday.

In some of the city schools exercises appropriate to Memorial Day were observed yesterday, but in no room were more patriotic exercises taken than in the third of Miss Blanche Tillidge of No. 9, Palm street school. The room was decorated with large and small flags, arms, attached, army items, cross-swords, one being a former Confederate sword, also a Confederate flag, captured during the civil war, all being so arranged as to elicit the praise of the forty teachers of the building. The exercises of the schools were from 3 to 4 o'clock, and they were largely attended by parents and friends. Miss Elliott deserves much credit for her outlining efforts on the occasion.

In the seventh grade at Union square school on Tuesday, rooms 10, 12, and 13 united for a Memorial ceremony under the direction of Miss Grant, Miss Straw and Miss Neville, the instructors of three rooms. The program for the interesting exercises for which the teachers deserve great credit, follows:

A PATRIOTIC SERVICE.

Next Sunday morning the services at Central church will be in keeping with the observance of Memorial Day. The "Stars and Stripes" will be prominent in decoration. The pastor, Rev. S. S. Pennell, will deliver a patriotic sermon, and the following musical program will be rendered by the quartet assisted by a chorus:

Sound forth again the nation's voice
To God, who ruled the ancient days
His power will make our hearts rejoice,
Can we but tread our father's ways

The sea that girds our land with song
The winds that make it wave with wheat,
Are witnesses forever true
That strength and freedom here shall meet.

Strike down the bars of pride and scorn
Lend us the lowly, lifted up, the poor,
And be a soldier nation born
To dare to shelter or endure.

Until the people all shall find,
Mid strife of votes, mid joy of tongues,
The peace that gladdens all mankind
The love that keeps its own young.

Where'er a starry flag may wave
Let one firm purpose true and brave,
Bind all to God, and man to man.

WARNING TO TRESPASSERS.

The rules regarding trespassing on the bicycle path of the Nipon Club will be rigidly enforced hereafter, so all interlopers should take warning. A special policeman patrols the track constantly, and the special officer at the gate has an eagle eye for offenders. A man drove down the path for a mile the other evening and was promptly nabbed, his name taken and he is taken to prosecute him. He begged off humbly, saying he did it in a mistake and meant no harm and the case is hanging over him. No further leniency will be shown, however, as there is now no excuse for any person of average intelligence, or below, being ignorant of the fact that the path is private property.

MAINE MUSICAL NOTES.

The Maine monument chorus gave its first concert of patriotic songs and dances, Monday evening in Portland city hall. Notwithstanding the fact that this concert was to raise funds to erect a monument to the ever remembered Maine and her 266 brave crew the attendance was light and considerably behind the demands of the occasion. Mr. B. T. Ward directed the chorus which was accompanied by an orchestra. The programme was long owing to the number of encores, which included notably Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker, the accomplished soprano. The programmes were made appropriate by a picture of the Maine as a frontispiece, above which were crossed flags of the United States and Cuban Libre. Another concert will be given Tuesday evening in the same place.

Mrs. Kate Ingraham has returned to her home in Rockland after a successful season as leader of an orchestra at Binghamton, N. Y., says the Rock and Star.

The song recital by Miss Ethel Hydon in Bath, noticed from last week, was given Wednesday evening.

A yellow boy in Lewiston made a long walk Sunday, and with cased rubber pursued about a dozen boys, telling them she intended in connection with the newly organized band to have the band boys play at an assault and when it came to a stand-up, it naturally sounded sing of a different kind, but it was generally recognized that it was by no means one of R. B. Hall's marches. The band started off with 120 steps a minute which is the regulation you know, but succeeded in with 90. But the funniest thing was when it came to the Officers of the Front Guard ever. The band fell off and had to stop playing. I asked Capt. Moriarty of Lewiston if he thought they played fast enough. "Fast enough?" says he, "you could teach them with a mule."

BASE BALL NOTES.

There is no losing of players in the majors this season. The men are put out of the game at the first chance.

The boom has set off the attendance at the ball games lively, so the magnates say. When our ball leagues change next month the new state of things makes it bad for the players.

No club outside the National league should carry more than 12 men, and the former should not carry more than 15. This would give the weaker teams a chance to strengthen up.

The National league players and umpires will be asked to make a vigorous demand from the league magnates about June 8. The wail for the poor attendance had disposed of that disagreeable problem for a while, but not forever.

With the exception of here and there a club no money is being made out of minor leagues in baseball. The players manage to get all that comes in at the gate and a little more in nine cases out of ten.

Nat Roth writes in the New York Evening World: "The old custom of coaches calling on the bleachers to howl a ratfling chorus still prevails at St. Louis, notwithstanding the intent of the Brush rule. It certainly isn't much less than equivalent for a player who is himself prohibited from yelling abuse at an opponent to hurl, by beckoning and flourishing of arms, a couple of thousand fiends to howl whatever they may please at pitchers and players. Umpire Swartwood does not enforce coaching rules."

At this early stage in the proceedings Pittsburg and Cleveland lack but one game of capture, is half of their respective series with Louisville, and Cincinnati wants but one more victory to take half the Pittsburg series.

The Yale team will play the Newton A. A. at Newton Friday, and Andover at Andover on Saturday. The Yale will go to Boston Saturday night and pass Sunday, going to Providence Monday to play Brown.

Cincinnati led the league last Monday with precisely the same record that the Baltimore leaders had a year ago.

Bridgeport has a first baseman named Yale.

The Bostons ought to be in the lead before June 17.

Hickman is looked to go to some club in the Western league.

Pitcher Dowling of Louisville has not proved much of a success.

Wadsworth, first baseman of the Yale varsity nine, is sick with a high fever, and Wear, centre field, has been ordered to drink. Eddy, last year's left fielder, will be kept at centre for the present. Pearsey, who started out well as pitcher, has apparently gone up in smoke, as he did last year. During the past two games opposing teams have made thirty-two runs off him. Capt. Greenway, although not pitching in his old form will be forced into the box temporarily. Stickney, the winning pitcher of the Yale freshmen, and Capt. Brown, the freshman third baseman, will get a trial with the varsity.

The Indianapolis and Kansas City ball players who tried to play a Western league game in Indianapolis last Sunday have each been fined $1 and costs.

Pitchers Daufeld and Horton have been unconditionally released by the Brooklyn club. Brooklyn still has a hope that Pitcher Ed. Doyle will join the team.

Tom Tucker leads Brooklyn in batting. He began the week with a percentage of .400. Shoebard was second with .391, and Jack Doyle third with .388.

The national Rochester club on the Easter league fair which William A. Brady of baseball and amusement fame is interested, is to undergo a process of renovation [illegible]

Mr. Hanlon thinks that Pitcher Corbett has been hasty advised, and that he had been left to his own devices of thinking he would have discovered the terms of the ball more club long ago.
